This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

The Cumulative Book Index completes with this number the tenth year of its publication. Ten years ago the publisher of the Index was spending his evenings with pencil and paper trying to reduce certain figures to a sum which would make possible a new undertaking that he, as a bookseller, needed in his own business and one which he believed other booksellers would demand soon. He and his wife, working at home evenings, prepared in February, 1898, an eight and a half page index of the books published the preceding month. These eight and a half pages of minion type, generously leaded, would amount to five or six pages set in our present style. It now takes fifty or sixty pages to catalog the books of a single month. The first number was an author and title index in one alphabet, with a supplementary subject index, in which the titles were grouped under such general headings as "Natural sciences," "Economics and politics." The author entries only contained price and publisher so that the name "Index" was not then inadequate as it is now. The first edition was carried to the post-office by the publisher himself. To post one of our large numbers now, the drayman has to make two or three trips. The first month increased the subscription list to twenty-seven. So great prosperity required that the business should be moved to a corner of the publisher's bookstore in the basement of the "Old Main" building of the University of Minnesota. In August an editor was engaged and not long afterward an assistant, so that by the time the first annual number was in preparation we again needed new quarters and moved to a tiny office in the basement of the University Young Men's Christian Association building, where the editor and her assistant made copy, read proof, alphabeted the linotype lines, and glanced over the final proofs amid the dulling fumes of gasoline, the noise of the adjoining printing shop and the impatient grumbles of a waiting printer. It was in this number that appeared the classic entry

"Story of the heroes of the American revolution, each one sliding off and showing the next."

Where the second line came from and where the right line went to is one of the unsolved mysteries. It led, however, to a system of calling the roll of our lines each month. The first annual number consisted of 233 pages of minion type, amounting in our present style of type to about 180 pages, against the 760 of this volume. Each of the ten years new features have been added and more books cataloged, in face of the knowledge that the additional expense involved would not bring a corresponding increase of income.

The eastern publishers for the most part at first ignored us: some told us frankly that they did not care to have their books listed in the Index; a few sent us curt and very uncommunicative responses. Now we are frequently asked, "What shall we do in order to have our books listed in your publication?" At present the business department alone requires three times the force of workers which formed the Index staff during the first year of its publication. The staff moreover has grown in experience as well as in numbers, each member with one exception having had from five to eight years experience in her particular work. It is their intelligent and loyal coöperation with the editor which has made the growth and improvement of the Index possible. We acknowledge our indebtedness in particular to Miss Bertha Tannehill, Misses Agnes and Beatrice Woollett, Misses Emma and Louise Teich, and Miss Ellen Frost. We owe a great deal also to some of our first patrons whose faith in us in spite of our ludicrous and annoying mistakes, gave us the courage to persist in our undertaking.

The present annual is larger than any which has preceded it. More of the current books have been cataloged, particularly privately printed books, transactions of societies, and government publications, state and federal. The publications of the American Statistical association and the American Academy of arts and sciences have been included; the catalog of the Oxford University press and a number of smaller catalogs have been checked over and corrections made for prices; and papers and essays, found in various collections, have been cataloged, each under its particular subject.

Abbreviations of Publishers' Names.

Abbreviations of publishers' names will be found in the Publishers' Directory at the end of the Index. This directory is brought up to date each month and the last issue should be consulted for latest addresses.

Names Used as Headings.

Entries are made preferably under the author's real name, but under the last initial or pseudonym, when the real name is not known or rarely used; under names of editors of compilations; under names of countries, states or cities which are treated as authors of their publications and of law reports; under names of societies or conventions, as authors of their transactions, journals, reports, and collections; under names of churches as authors of liturgies, hymn-books, catechisms, etc. (local churches, under name of place); under Bible when the book is a text or a paraphrase of any part of the Bible; under the first word, not an article, of anonymous works. Translations, abridgments, and indexes, are put under the original work.

Parts of Names Used as Headings.

English compound names are put under the second part; foreign compound names under the first part. English surnames beginning with a prefix are put under the prefix; in French names, under the prefix excepting the preposition de and d'; in all other languages and in French names beginning with de or d', under the name following the prefix. British noblemen are put under their titles; bishops under their family names; members of royal families, canonized persons, and members of religious orders under their first name.

Prices.

Educational and technical books, sold at a limited discount and commonly known as net books have an asterisk (*) before the price. Books subject to the rules of the American Publishers' Association are marked by a double asterisk () when the bookseller is required to maintain the list price; by a dagger (†), when the maximum discount is fixed at 20 and 10 per cent, as is allowable in the case of fiction.

When a price is changed, the book is recatalogued in the current number of the Index whatever may be the date of its publication.

Library of Congress Cards.

Numbers to be used in ordering the printed catalog cards of the Library of Congress are given at the end of the main (author) entry of each book. In many government publications, however, for which only subject entries are given, these numbers are attached to the subject entries.

When a book is entered before the Library of Congress card number can be procured, it is reentered in a succeeding issue of the Index with the order number attached. It will be necessary, for example, to look in the 1907 issues of the Index for the numbers of some books that were published in 1906 and catalogued in the 1906 Index.

In ordering cards by these numbers, the numbers should be arranged in columns in increasing order of the numbers. The number of copies wanted should be indicated after the card numbers with a slanting line between, e. g., 5-2850/4. The price of cards ordered by number is 2c. for the first copy and ½c. for each additional copy. For further information apply to the Librarian of Congress, Washington, D. C.
